Wait to Elect ...

The freshman class has delayed for one month the election of us officers. It has been a standing complaint among freshmen that they do not know the candidates well enough to vote on them. This has been true because the nominations and elections have been held during and immediately following registration week. This waiting period of one month will enable the class to become better acquainted with itself.

It is possible that some groups pro postponement for reasons other than just allowing a ger-acquainted period. We do not wish to side with any frosh factions. However, we feel that the move to postpone was a constructive one because it will increase the possibility of the new collegians voting more intelligently on their officers after having been associated with them for a period of time

Achievements Cited

After thirteen years of faithful service to Southern Missionary College, Professor Kenny A. Wright has retited from the presidency. Reflecting on his tenure, many outstanding achievements of Professor Wright and his colleagues could be cited. There were the installing of sev eral productive industries, the securing of the senior college status for SMC, and the expansive building program. These contributions along with many others are noteworthy. There is, ho ever, one unique contribution to Adventist education that Professor Wright has sponsored, more successfully than other SDA college presidents, and that is the comptehensive and effective student government of SMC. For this we are extremely appreciative.

We miss Professor Wright, but wish him many happy and profitable years as general field secretary of the Southern Union.

Suhrie's Sage Sermon

Dr. Ambrose L. Suhrie, resident educational nsultant, may not be seen on the campus, but he is certainly heard. In a letter to Dean Rebok this paragraph was extracted

"If I were in attendance at the first faculty meeting and were invited to give a message to my colleagues, it would be this: Let's all try to reach more and preach less; live more and say less; guide more and drive less. What we are in vastly more important than anything we can do Or 52V

ACCENT ON ... ... Collegedale Academy

The academy fall week of prayer has just drawn to a close. This week marks the fulfillment of an old desire. For the first ime Collegedale Academy has had its own week of prayer separate from the college. Before, all students attended the same evening murrings in the Tabernacle, listening to the college speaker. They had their own academy speaker for afternoon chapels Elder O. L. Heinrich brought us inspiring and practical mesages in the Fine Arts Chapel. An air of reverence and the presence God prevailed. We believe that in such smaller meetings it is ossible to get even closer to God.

We have two weeks during the school year that are set apart weeks of prayer, but should there be such a thing as a "week of prayer?" It is true that we may set aside a week in which we pay extra attention to out spiritual needs, but should not every ek in the year be a week of prayer? Let's decide right now that every week from now on will be week of prayer, and every year will be a year of prayer. In fact, ct's decide to have a whole life of prayer. When we have a life f prayer we will be able to live more abundantly. _ ca.-

IT'S LIS

Courtesy week is in progress. Burma Shavetype signs are admonishing us to be more courte ous. It came as a shock to us to learn that not everyone thinks that courtesy weeks are necessary It is seemingly the honest conviction of some and the attitude of others that being a Christian automatically makes one a courteous, considerate is dividual. We feel that this is true only in the broadest sense: being a Christian will instill in one the desire and intent to be throughtful and courteous to others. However, conversion does not obviate the necessity of carefully studying and painstakingly practicing the accepted social amenities that make life flow smoothly in any civilend community

We said "civilized community" by design, for frequently acts of courtesy are absent completely and life then ceases to flow smoothly. At this point wars and other more minor disputes crupt and a state of semi-barbatity exists in place of a civilized community. Courtesy is that serious a marrer.

Laxity in the small matters of courtesy is seemingly unimportant at times. However, if one becomes careless in the lesser matters he will find that he lacks the foundation necessary to become a really polished individual. College is not the place to build this foundation. It must start at home and in the elementary school. At the college level at should be a really solid platform.

One very distillusioned atomic scientist talking to another said "I hear that Professor Knutthe has discovered the link between civilized man and the spe-st's us." Let's hope that we here at Collegedate will do our part to prove this latest theory of evolution as false as the others we have so studiously decreed.

Standard Raising

As SDA young people at a Christian college, we must be increasingly concerned with the in-centrie to raise our goals and sights far above those of the ordinary man. Our motto should be excellence tather than semi-perfection. Achieve nent of the superlative rather than the comparative. Then to strongly believe that the ideals given to us through the Spirit of Prophecy are to be accepted as our high standard criterion.

We must strive to accomplish these attain to scale above the medi ocre levels, and to uphold the maxim as set before us. These efforts are gradual, and can only be achieved through earnest and mutual study by all.

WE DARE YOU ...

With the mass media of communication -aching greedily on our casual civili zation BOOKS have slipped ignominously from the preferred list of American diversions. We collegians share this unfortunate situation.

The idea of unrequired reading appeals little to the typical student who has for his main into the typical student who has for his main in-terests—football, loafing, or sleeping. He is so-ually the one who sandwiches the study of the world's political picture in seven hurtfeld min-utes herwein classes, or reads Shakeepear's "Jul-jus Caesar" via the Barnes Outline Series, ius Caesar" via the Barnes Outline Series.

Instead of using the popular mass media en-tirely to obtain your liberal arts training, develop your book interest. Duting National Book Week, November 13-19, why not read one book thoroughly. If you are sincere you will enjoy and appreciate this medium too.

. ONLY WHEN SPOKEN TO

The greatest publicity for our college is the howledge displayed by its graduates. It is a simple story. Learn it in your four years at Col-legedale and display it in the years of service after graduation sen circumstances arise to inhibit the prog rest of this story, it should be the concern of every student who is paying for his privilege to every student who is paying for his privilege to sit in classes. He pays for every hour of lecture that the teacher presents but not for the com-ments and observations that some thoughtless students insist on contributing. There comments are proper and in order if they have a question olp to make the subject more understandable vever, when they take everyone's time to 14. show the teacher they have read the study assignment, or give an elaring personal experience, they become a problem to the teacher and a serious impediment to the student. With every blast of intelligence that they unload upon the class, they keep the teacher from prese nting a that are necessary to the futurefacts more conscious students.

h's our school, our problem, and our action It's our school, our problem, and our action alone that will solve it. But before we bundle these students up and banish them to a land filled with poets that cat only fried eggplant and half-conced portates, let's take a good look at our own behavior in class. Perhaps you are the one that is monopolizing the class discussion.

If so, do your popularity and fellow-students a favor and ask yourself these questions before speaking in class. Is what I am about to say ally an improvement on what the teacher saying? Is my question really necessary? Is it important enough to gain the attention of all the class and break the teacher's intended chain of thought?

Stay Out of Ruts

For many years SMC has had the reputation of being a spiritually-minded college. If we can follow through on the student-sponsored week of devotion now ending, we can retain and even greatly improve the fact of this reputation.

is very easy to slip back into the old rut after a week of spiritual emphasis unless we make good use of the devices provided for daily devotion. Thuse devices include Power Hour, held at noon each day and the Prayer Chaptel where one can go and meditate without any disturbance whatever, for there is to be no conversation of any type in that room. If each of us would spend a few min utes in the Prayer Chapel contemplating our lives and thinking how we can improve our lives, Collegedale would greatly benefit, to say nothing of the good done for the individual.

On Low Groans

We haven't noticed any appreciative diminish ng on the campus. ing in the amount of complaining on the cam but there has been a change in the type done. om do we hear any student complain that his courses aren't teaching him anything. The nore now is a low groan as a result of stiff courses ngid-ly applied. The groundwork laid in past years, combined with vigorous administration by the Faculty, is bearing fruit for SMCites. Scholustically speaking SMC is definately looking up in most departments

Soon the second semester will begin, and with it a chance for us to begin making up for what we didn't do the first semester. Let's make the best of it in a scholastic as well as a spiritual way

Why Stay and Study?

Next week, at the end of the first semester many of you disappointed collegians will be tempted to quit. Likely, financial problems, low grades, discipline, or immaturity will cause you to onder whether this business of educati wonder whether this business or reduction is worthwhile. Whatever your reasons are, you should think analytically and wisely of the conse-quences of your decision which will probably af-fect your whole life's happiness.

Why should I continue my education?" There are many answers to this innocent question, but we wish to present four. First, the general educa-tional level has increased so that today one who is not a college graduate finds it more difficult to find a suitable job. Second, it is an investment to increase your productivity and earning power. Third, if properly pursued a college education will teach you how to think. Fourth, at college you can broaden your interests tremendously a become more tolerant roward your fellow men.

Before you pack, consult your counselor

Think of the importance of an intelligent decision an most of all pray for guidance.

Good Riddance

We see today the realization of our idealistic dreams—the riddance of the unwanted litterbues dreams—the riddance of the unwanted interougs. At the beginning of the first semester we noticed this childish practice was becoming habitual with many of SMC's collegians. In fact the ACCENT photographer caught two of these scoundrels in the act of cluttering up the campus. Under the scrutiny of our critical eyes we have inspected the campus regularly since that uneventful day. Our report reveals that at last the campus strollers have found the green waste cans. The addition of these large economy size cans placed conspicu-ously along the sidewalks provides the reason for cleaner campus. Let's continue to keep the litterbugs ostracized.

Be We Therefore Separate

Every now and then someone around these hallowed halls comes to the realization that we have a desperate need for the most hallowed of all halls-a church. Perhaps the thought was created as a result of a collision with a post in the gymnasium while playing baskerball and then discovering that a similar post obstructs the view of the rostrom during Sabbath services. Having recoved the vision, this enthusiastic man infects others with his new found idea. Soon, however, he learns that ground was broken for a new chutch years ago. It never materialized. The students of SMC are sull longing for a sanctuary.

Of course, the reasons for not having a church are very real ones. First and foremost it would cost a minimum of $400,000 to build an appropriare and adequate one. We simply do not have the money. Secondly, on account of our accreditation we must constantly improve our plant proper-churches do not count. Our immediate needs he in the direction of a home economic eafeteria combination or a gymnasium. We'll probably have these two long before the church is constructed,

In answer to observations that a great edificiisn't necessary for worship, we must agree However, we must mention that there is a better atmosphere of reverence in a place which is used entirely for the worship of God.

In view of the fearful facts, and fully realizing the difficulties the construction of the church entails; nevertheless, we feel that we must state that we strongly favor, yes urge, the erection of a church soon at SMC. We also realize that when the right people have the will, there will be found a way.

Are Theu Serious?

Not infrequently estremed speakers appear before the student hody lamonting the dearth of our and coming leaders in the denominant. "Young people just aten't demonstrating the type of leadership ability we need," they say. They should know, and we are sure that they are right. They need only he patient, for in a few years after the shackles of scholastic regimentation have been thrown off, a respectable portion of college graduates may blossom forth into acceptable lead-

The emphasis in college now seems to be The emphasis in college now seems to be placed on developing followers instead of leaders. Seldom do our leaders pass up the opportunity of letting students know that they are to second the main motion made by said leader. We are rold the main motion made by said leader, We are rold when to arise, worship, ext. go to class, work, play, study and sleep. In these areas, dealing par-ticularly with schoatsic (not social) problems, there is very little chance to use the knowledge gained from previous tollege experience. By this we mean that, scholarically speaking, the treat-ment of a senior in college is virtually the same as that of a freshman. We come to college to learn to live, but we must wait until we graduate to start doing it. For four years we follow a prescribed course in which free selection of courses is allowed in only 25-30% of the cases.

LEADERSHIP-PRODUCING

This recitation of leadership-smothering practice tices could go on to greater length, but that is not our purpose. Suffice it to say that we wonder if these are leadership producing practices? Is it wonder that a senior is not ready to assume leadership responsibilities? We also resent the implication that our college cannot turn out stu-dents capable of being thinking, acting, leaders. We believe that in truth the caliber of training offered to underclassmen is such for could be offered to underclassmen is such (or courte to such) that by the juntor year we are capable of accepting responsibility. We believe that in ex-change for this capability, upperclassmen should be granted special privileges for the purpose of adding prestige to and recognition of attainments classman standing

Accordingly, we recommend that some privileges be granted upperclassmen. that certain small concessions will go far toward teaching a student that he has some responsibility. This will better prepare him for leadership after graduation. There will be errors in judgment by many students, but is it not a part of education to choose and to suffer the consequences or reap the benefits, according to the wisdom of the choice?

If the seekers for up-and-coming leaders are If the seesers for up-and-coming teauers are serious, let them give real study to present meth-ods of training. If present methods are not turn-ing out acceptable leaders, then part of the fault could be in the system. Young people are only what their superiors, today's parents and leaders, make them

Foresight Far-reaching

nts of this college will remember Dr. Suhrie as one of the greatest leaders of young people we have ever had. His personal friendliness was warm and stimulating, always giving us en-couragement and inspiration, His high cultural couragement and inspiration. His high cultural interests sputred us on toward making greater scholastic progress. His personal Clinistian ex-ample was a stronger spiritual help to us than many sermons. His eminent ability as an organizer raught us how to plan, how to prepare, and how to work in orderly channels. His foresigns ray as wide and far-reaching as his insight was

What we remember most was that he not only loved us but respected us. His loving respect for us who were so much younger, increased our self-respect and improved our respect not only for him, but for the ideals he stood for. He respected the younger point of view, possibly because he himself remained so young at heart.

PROMOTED STUDENT PARTICIPATION

was natural that he should promote student It was natural that he should promote student participation in the leadership of this institution; he helseved that we would learn more by doing than by listening only. He put us to work, often hard work. He hard work. His standard was perfection. But he taught us more than almost anyone. He taught to become a part of this college and share in us to become a part of this college and share in its joys and problems. He had the patience and the humility it takes to appreciate the student point of view, because he was truly a great man. Through the years hundreds of students have learned the rudiments of leadership through the Student Association; what the students are able to do today and what we may be able to do to to do today and what we may be able to do to-morrow in the field of leadership, we owe largely to Dr. Suhrie's inspiration, to his energy, to his Christian friendliness, and to his genuine great-ness. Sorrowfully, the students of Southern Mis-sionary College today follow him to his rest. Eag-erly and confidently we students look forward soon to meet him again. Furgor's Norte Dean Kinsey delivered this inhale at Dr.

Successful or Not?

The SA budger is balanced. The much-touted om sale was a success in that it brought into the SA coffers S414, which is than S114 more than the minimum needed.

Bur was the sale successful? 100% participa-tion was sought, but only a meager 12% (48 out of 392) participated.

The SA is thought of as primarily a college enterprise. Maybe this idea needs cateful reappraisal, because 30% of all academy students par-ticipated. They represented 43% of the total turnout. Very good, but what about the college students?

Sa What!

'So What!" That is the reaction of many when "So What!" That is the reaction of many when confronted with the decharation that students are not sufficiently interessed in the SA (The very statement is a paradox. Student not being inter-ested in students associated). Anyany, the ex-change set us to thinking, lust what would hap-pen if the SA dropped out of the picture at Col-legedale—suddenly?

First of all, you would not be reading articles of this type—written by students for students. For without a SA there would be no organized school paper. It would be a college publication run by an paper. It would be a college publication run by an already over-worked faculty member, reflecting, not student opinion and creativeness, but the school as seen through the eyes of the professor. (A vali viewpoint, admittedly, but not a student unding board.) The same observation is true of our equally highly esteemed Memories. All of the invaluable organizational and administrative experience would be lost. There would be no WSMC Classes could still perhaps organize in a haphazard way, but their voice would not be heard as it now may he heard through the senate. There would be no organized club activities.

Pandemonium would result when various organizations planned meetings and activities that would inevitably conflict with one another as to time and place of meeting, and purpose.

The entire college would suffer through loss of interest in such student-executed events as College Day. By working hard for them, we isiting students that we really want them here with us There would be no well-planned all-college picnic and field day. The faculty could not leave the campus for their annual beat trip. Neither could they have a college visitation day.

An important area of faculty-student contact would be lost. Students would be unable to make astructive suggestions, neither could they air their griefs in a dignified way. Students would probably have no chance to be represented on the government council. Havno Student Association the administration ald be forced to speak to a group of students, not an organized body with delegated authority.

At the student assemblies there would be no duly authorized student chairman Students and faculty alike would lose the benefit of working together as they now do under our faculty sponsor system.

Of course there are many other items that have escaped us, but these are good for a starter. have escaped us, but these are good in a statest. Yes, we feel, finally, that by organizing we accrue to ourselves a dignity that can come only as an individual, student though he may be, is recog-nized as an intelligent, thinking, capable being. We believe these things to be vital, yes essential and we are willing to work and co-operate to keep our SA alive and progressive.

Dangerous and Sneaky

Spring is a dangerous time of year. When the chilling breezes of winter are blowing, it isn't so difficult to sit and study because there are few thoughts about outside activities. Spring, of course, is quite different.

Spring is sneaky. After the above-mentioned winter confinement to the indoors, Spring comes along with her suothing caresses and innocently along with her suothing caresses and innocently fures the unsuspecting student away from the desk and into the teptd out-of-dnors. She helps rationalize neglecting studies by pointing out that ir has been a hard winter, and to just revel in the quiet luxury of a beautiful Spring day isn't going hurt a bit. And indeed it wooldn't-if it were only one day. However, such is not the rase. Spring lasts all the way to June, and before she releases her benumbing grip, college is over for another year. That's what makes Spring so sneaky.

The homogenity of nature is quite remarkable. In the Spring the sap rises in the trees. In the Spring the saps also succumb to the wooing of halmy days and let commencement day sneak up on. There are just 21 days left before final reus. Hang on to the old study habit just that long, and then Spring becomes your friend.

Mixed ABC System

In the April 20 issue of the Sligonian of Washington Missionary College, the "Inquirer" mentioned that the college is experimenting with a mixed alphabetical system of chapel seating. Those contacted for the opinion poll agreed un nimously that it was an improvement over the conventional system of having the sexes on opposite

This mixed system is used by several other SDA colleges and we believe that if the arrangement were tried here, it would increase reverence and respect for the speakers and diminish the intalking prevalent in the chapel sessions now. In planning for next year's academic pro-gram, we suggest that the College Administration the Student Association study the Jeasibilty of the plan and consider adopting it as an experiment for 1956-1957

Prresponsible

Evidently some patrons of WSMC are dis-satisfied with the station's program. Three times in the last month vandals of the lowest culiber in the last month vapidate of the lowest camber have tampered with receiving facilities on the reservoir hill causing undue headache and repair. Each time the "good music" has been discontin-ued for a day. Why should the majority, who ap-preciate WSMC, put up with such pillaging?

5A Assembly Accepts Revised Constitution

Why the Change?

Today you are reading a completely renovated Southern CENT. We hope you like the change to six columns printed ACCENT. We hope you like the change to six columns printed on a large news sheet. It is only after much deliberation and hesitation that we alter the ten year old format, but we real-hesistation that we after the ten-year of a format, our we rear-ize it's "time for a change."

During this academic year it has been the unpleasant chore of the editorial staff to eliminate pertinent news and feature notice that would naturally have given a decided honst to various organizations. Such has been the case on several occasions. Of course it is only fair that each departseveral occasions. Or course it is only fair that each department and organization receive adequate coverage of its particular endeavor. To help remedy this inadequate coverage ticular endeavor. To help remedy this inadequate coverage of news we are printing a larger ACCENT.

In the past we have barely tapped the news sources on the eampus. Personality sketches, alumin invers, proper faculty coverage, articles on SMC history, students' hobbies, personal aduesements and experiences are some of the nems that do not appear as often as they should. We want to comb mat do not appear as otter as they should. We want to comb the campast extensively, probing our long judy, journalistic fingers one every corner of SMC. Interesting virtually every person in the faculty, staff and sudoren hody is our goal. This revolutionary ACCINT is a partial remedy for our newspaces. We would like but do not expect to please everyone, though we do want to ease our journalistic conscience.

Rear Dismissal

These conditions, while not too grievous, are worthy of consideration for improvement. We believe that they could be improved, point for point thought. A liphabetically as signed suits do not allow student friends to get together and converse during height. 2 Distinction made by this member: D ship gives some recognition on the basis of scholastic attain-ement. 3 Mrs search with Southern and control of the ment of the student with some more readily become gentleship gives some recognition on the basis of schools admin-ment 3. Men seated with women more readily become gentle-men wated with ladies, 4. This naturally enhances reverence and attention. 5. When more closely observed by the fair set, the near will be less prone toward demonstrating a retarded intellect by studying during chapel. 6. This system would help somewhat in making new collegians feel more welcomesummary we propose: That the freshmen be seated alphabetically from the front of the chapel and that sophomores, juniors and seniors be seated alphabetically, within their class, progressively to-ward the rear of the chapel. 2, That no "sides" he reserved for either sex. 3. That dismissal from chapel always proceed from the reat forward.

Acceptable Leadership

Acceptable leadership today calls for more than taking only those positions before our fellows that will ensure the approving smiles of those who we feel can enhance our pro-motion or secure our re-election or our reappointment. The

Evaluate Your Materialism

We as Adventists need to guard against materialism. We obviously living in an age of abundant prosperity. We more than we have ever had before, and we also want nore than we have ever wanted. Do we believe that our kingdone is one of this world? If we do, then we will leave off spending for items that have only snob appeal. We will not worst about "keeping up with the Joneses." (No one really want to keep up-the trick is to get ahead.) These words are fairly commonplace-we hear them often.

What makes such obvious admonitions necessary? We reremember that "the love of money is the root of all evil." Notice, it says the love of money. It is not necessary to pos sess money to fall into the trap of materialism. Pre-occupation with thoughts of money-either having it or not having

When we spout anti-materialism propaganda too pro favely, we deministrate an unhealthy preoccupation over and what it can buy. The greatest asset money has to offer to the fact that possession of a sufficient amount of it removes the necessity of worrying about it. Any salary that is not sufficiently adequate to achieve the above mentioned goal, we believe, leads to a state of money and social-status conviousness that is not conducive to best Christian service. It is our opinion that prosperity is not a detriment to the well-grounded Christian.

Silentlu Steal Away

At this time of the year when graduates are receiving slams on the back, unmerciful handshakes, and dollar ties, we would like to fold our tots and silently steal away. Taking a last look around the two-year old Accent office bungs to a mood of nostalgia. As we reminisce about the many in hours spent before each deadline, invaluable lessons it organization, management, and journalism studied and learned, and the ACP First Class award, we believe that the Accent has emerged through 1955-56 successfully. have had a lot of fun hernging you the campus news.

Judged from appearances, we looked considerably busier we really were. The wild array of back issues of Attent stacked around, the comfortably cluttered desks the worn-looking old chairs, and an impressive library of journalistic and other knowledge all blend to give an impression of business-like surrenty. We are not really that industrous. But during occasional fleeting moments indus-triousness was rampant. To publish the ACCENT naturally there are many who contribute greatly. We sincetely thank the persons who co-operated with us this year.

Next year a "more glamorous" editor is taking over. In inheriting this position, we would also pass on to Joya Lynn the newsaches, sleepless nights, and joys of seeing a new ACCENT appear every two weeks. It's a great life working for a newspaper. We hope she will have the co-operation that we have had this year in order to grasp that ACP All-American ration
